

Chapter 20: Jack

Excerpt from “Make Your Won History”

There are really only two types of women in the world. The ones you want, and the ones you don't want. Save all the other categories for the ladies to worry about and sort out for themselves. Those other ways of describing women (Hot, Uptight, Frigid, Easy, Desperate, Out-of-Your-League) these are just tools that women use against you to keep you from your ultimate goal.

Your ultimate goal is, as always, is to get whatever woman you want, as many times as you want.

They define themselves in different ways to get you to play their game. If you let it be their game and rules then you're the chump, and I've got no sympathy for you. All those definitions are just ways to control you. To make you believe that different women need to be treated differently.

It's the big lie.

Women have been telling it since the dawn of language. Even though it more often than not actually hurts the forward movement of women by dividing them into opposing cliques. They still blindly go forth with this plan.

Men aren't like this. You know it instinctively in your gut, or lower. How many times have you heard these phrases?

“He's only got one thing on his mind.”

“What did you expect? He's a man.”

“That's because he's thinking with his dick.”

“It's a man's world.”

“Orson” by Mike Eserkaln www.eserkaln.com

We’ve heard these phrases before. There are no subtle distinctions made for men. There aren’t 100 different varieties of “men.”

We’re comfortable with that.

For all the talk I hear about women being better at “teamwork” and “communication” and “working together”, it’s the men who are more unified.